Your Child's Goal Setting for Academic Successes

Your Child's Goal Setting for Academic Successes

Behavior: Do We Really Understand Series: Part 3 of 3

During the last two weeks, we have considered what motivates a child's classroom behaviors. This chart was developed with a behavioral specialist to help students and their parents support growth milestones and academic success. It is just an example. I encourage you to modify the targets with your child's teacher to meet your child's needs and individual situation. The philosophy behind the chart is student engagement, monitoring behavior, providing space for conversations about what is expected versus what is really happening, and leveraging agreed upon incentives. The point system neutralizes conflict between the student and educator and/ or a parent. Consistency is the key to success.

Name: $\qquad$ Date:

Goal:

Daily Behavior Expectations Time of Day Ratings
Participating in my own learning activities inside
Morning $0 \quad 1 \quad 2$
and outside of the house

| Lunch | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Afternoon | 0 | 1 | 2 |

Staying on task with my work with no fighting or getting Morning 0
12
distracted

| Lunch | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Afternoon | 0 | 1 | 2 |

Making appropriate interruptions by writng down
questions and respecting my Morning $0 \quad 1 \quad 2$
parent's no interruption
sign

$$
\begin{array}{llll}
\text { Afternoon } & 0 & 1 & 2
\end{array}
$$

Working independently and making good choices

Morning $0 \quad 1 \quad 2$ ming good choices

|  | Lunch | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| :--- | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | Afternoon | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| Completing work as directed | Morning | 0 | 1 | 2 |
|  | Lunch | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| Transitioning to the next | Afternoon | 0 | 1 | 2 |
| activity quickly and quietly | Morning | 0 | 1 | 2 |
|  | Lunch | 0 | 1 | 2 |
|  | Afternoon | 0 | 1 | 2 |
|  | Total: |  |  |  |

Ratings = 0 no redirects, $1=$ less than 3 redirects, 2= 3 or more redirects
$100 \%=30$ points total per day
$90 \%=27$ points, $80 \%=24,70 \%=21$ points
$60 \%=18$ points, $50 \%=15$ points

Reward I am working toward:

60\%
70\% $\qquad$

80\% $\qquad$
90\% $\qquad$
100\% $\qquad$

May you and your child celebrate goal setting academic successes.

Danielle

Copyright (c) 2020 by GenParenting

